

This is what the Middle States Accreditation team is saying about St. Augustine Catholic School...

"When the story of Catholic Schools in Washington, DC is written, historians will look back at St. Augustine School, a hidden gem— in fact, a diamond in the Nation's capital—and marvel at its brilliance. "

- The sincerity and the involvement of the Principal supports a strong Catholic identity.
- The faculty strives to use creative methods and materials with which to engage the curiosity of students while stressing personal and academic responsibility.
- The parents of St. Augustine Catholic School unselfishly give their time and talents to further support the educational and extracurricular of the school.
- Values and attitudes are nurtured so that students will contribute to the establishment of a just and compassionate society.
- The school provides a variety of methods of assessing and tracking student progress that individualize student objectives and enhance student learning.
- The faculty and administration provide an atmosphere for easy communication with parents about the progress of their students.
